There is a celebrated professor in Germany, whose works on biblical science are authorities, whose singularly important of all affairs are his studies. He was lately paid a large sum of money by his publisher on account of copyright funds. The amount was more than he could use for present demands. "What on earth can I do with all this money?" he asked, in real distress. "Why," replied the publisher, "you can put it out at interest." After thinking a moment in evidently greater anxiety, he continued: "No, no; that will never do, for don't you see that will make it still worse, for there will then be ever so much more of it."

"ALGERNON" sends us a poem in which he declares, "There is rest for me in the silent tomb." Oh, there is, is there? Yes, there is; lots of it. You try it. You'll find how much rest there is in the silent tomb, with half a dozen Chicago medical students digging in after you and fighting over you. You crawl into the tomb for a little quiet time, if you want to, Algermon, but you just take your revolver with you, all the same.—Burlington Hawk.

Snipkins refused to get his wife a new hat; and soon after his little girl came in and said: "Mamma, won't you buy me a monkey to play with when you go away?" "No, darling, wait till you are older, and then I'll buy one, as I did," replied the grief-stricken wife, with her tears bursting forth afresh.

A professor was expostulating with a student for his idleness, when the latter said: "It's of no use; I was cut out for a loafer." "Well," replied the professor, snarling the student critically, "whoever cut you out understood his business."

Rice & Cottrell have imported from Kentucky a Jersey red hog, an entirely new hog to this country, they are said to weigh four to five hundred pounds at one year old.—West Point Echo.

It is claimed in Germany that the drug known as cur is a sure cure for hysteria, as it calms the mother nerves, without affecting the sensitive ones, and so stops muscular convulsions.

"When I die," said a married man, "I want to go where there's no snow to shovel." His wife said she presumed he would.

"Yes," said the old reprobate: "I always recognize water when I see it; it looks just like gin!"
